

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Recipe For Fruit Balls and Other Useful Information.

To make fruit balls spread warm boiled rice a half inch thick on a floured board. Have ready fresh peaches stoned and cut in halves. Put the two halves of each together and the rice in pieces just large enough to wrap around each one and press them into shape with the hands, leaving the fruit well covered in the center of every ball. Roll the ball in flour and roll each in a cloth that has been buttered and floured. Tie them carefully in shape and boil in plenty of water for half an hour, putting a tin in the bottom of the kettle to lift them from the bottom. Remove from the cloth and serve with a hot sweet sauce.

Lemon-sauce is delicious with the fruit balls. Cream together one tablespoonful of cornstarch, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg and one-half cupful of sugar. Pour over them, stirring constantly, two cupfuls of boiling water and cook until thick. Remove from the stove and add the juice and rind of one lemon. Serve in a boat.

Handy Kitchen Utensil.

Kate Hatch McRae of Cripple Creek, Colo., has designed a machine for beating cake rapidly and thoroughly with little exertion, the picture showing the apparatus in operation. The beater proper may be of any desired form to suit the numerous uses for which the beater may be used. When it is desired to make use of the apparatus, the hanger is rigidly secured to the edge of the table by the clamps, and the cake dish is held underneath the downwardly projecting beater with one hand, while the crank is grasped in the other hand to revolve the beater until the operation is completed. The beating frame is easily removed for cleaning or for inserting another style for performing different work, and of course the machine is not limited to beating cake, but will whip cream, make frosting and do all the labor in that line by simply inserting the beater of the proper shape.

Parsley Suggestions.

To prepare parsley as a seasoning for winter soups and sauces dip fresh bunches of it into boiling water and scald for a few minutes. Remove and quickly dry near the fire.

The best method of preparing parsley for soup and creamed potatoes is to twist it into a round ball and clip it into thin slices. Parsley is considered an aid to digestion. Many enjoy eating little sprigs dipped in salt along with the dinner. Sprays of parsley garnishing meats and salads certainly add to the temptation of a dinner.

It is said that sprigs of parsley eaten with a little salt will drive away the odor of onions on the breath.

Furbishing the House.

A few drops of oil of lavender in a silver bowl or ornament dish of some kind half filled with very hot water and set in the dining room just before dinner is served gives a delightful and intangible freshness to the atmosphere of the apartment. Hostesses often put a small vessel in the parlor and dressing rooms when arranging the house for a festivity. The suggestion is especially valuable to the hostess in a small apartment, which sometimes in the bustle of preparation becomes stuffy.

To Clean Flannel Blankets.

Flannel blankets may be successfully cleaned by using borax and soft soap. Put two tablespoonfuls of borax and a pint of soft soap in a large tub or tub to cover the blankets. When the borax and soap have become dissolved, put in the blankets and let them stand overnight. The next day rub them out, rinse them in two waters and hang them to dry. Never wring them.

To Preserve the Color of Flowers.

Several methods of preserving the natural color of pressed flowers have been suggested, but the best, it is claimed, is that used in the New York botanical gardens. After the specimens have been under pressure for a day or two they are laid in papers heated in the sun, and this is repeated until the drying is completed. This, it is said, preserves the colors perfectly.

Stilling the Waves.

Baron Benvenuto d'Alessandro, an Italian, has invented a method of checking the force of waves by means of nets made of waterproof hemp. One recently tried with success at Havre was 360 feet long by 50 feet wide, with meshes 11 inches apart. The nets will break the waves at sea and will also be a bulwark for hydraulic works against heavy surf.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

How a Jersey Farmer Was Caught by a Clothing Store Ad.

A farmhand from New Jersey in need of a new suit of clothes came to New York in search of a bargain and finally stopped in front of a clothing store in Baxter street which displayed the following sign in the window:

"If You Buy One of Our $5 Suits, You'll Have a Fit."

While reading this notice a "puller in" succeeded in getting him into the store. The Jerseyman picked out a blue serge suit which the salesman told him was worth $25 and for which he paid $5. The first time the farmhand wore his new suit it rained very hard, and he got a thorough drenching. The following Sunday when he tried to get into the clothes he found that the trousers had shrunk so that the bottoms of them only came to the tops of his shoes and the coat would not go on at all. The color had also changed from navy blue to a dull red. Then he recalled the wording of the sign in front of the Baxter street clothing store:

"If You Buy One of Our $5 Suits, You'll Have a Fit."

It meant just what it had said. He bought the suit and now he saw where the fit came in.—New York Sun.

Everybody Missed Him.

"No visitor to our little city has been more deeply missed than Mr. Able Graftor, who left suddenly last Tuesday. The proprietor of the Bowersville hotel misses him most of all, but the tailor and the shoe dealer, also ye editor, have considerable interest in him. It is not that we miss Graftor so much, but that we miss our money more, as Shakespeare would have put it."—Bowersville Clarion.

The General Information Fiend.

"Don't you think young Mr. Binx is interesting?" said the young woman.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne, "in a way. A man who could store his mind with so much unimportance could not fail to be worthy of study. He puts me in mind of a scientist who goes about collecting specimens that nobody else wants."—Washington Star.

A Plausible Defence.

Sundowner—I'm good for lots of things. You don't work at all, do you?

Castor Bean Plant—Don't work? Say, where did you think the furniture factories got all their bureau, bed and chair rollers?—Chicago Record-Herald.

Scarring the Turf.

"I made one hole in five strokes," announced the new golfer gleefully. "The idea!" exclaimed the other golfer, who was even newer. "I invariably make a hole with every stroke. I never can hit the ground in the same place twice."—Philadelphia Press.

She Had the Better of It.

"You know, Harold, it hurts me just as much as it hurts you."

"Yes, b-but you d-d-don't have to s-s-sit down on the p-p-place afterward."

An Early Morning Victim.

"That man is so tender hearted," remarked the unoriginal person, "that he wouldn't harm a fly."

"Humph!" answered Mr. Sirius Barker. "That isn't tender heartedness; that's sheer foolishness."—Washington Star.

A Fine Bird.

Cholly—Give me a kiss, sweet heart.

Marie—I'm afraid to; the parrot is looking.

The Parrot—Oh, go ahead and kiss her; I'll turn my head.—Philadelphia Press.

Pact and Future.

"The secret of happiness is to live in the present."

"That's so, but my wife is always wanting money for tomorrow, and bill collectors, you know, won't let you forget yesterday."—Detroit Free Press.

Hints For Toilet Table.

Soften the water you use for washing your face and hands by a half cupful of solution of borax, made by dissolving a half pound of borax in a gallon of water. This may be diluted at will. Keep a bottle of the borax water on the washstand ready for constant use. Be sure to get refined, powdered borax of good quality for this purpose. There is much stuff sold as borax which has no right to the name.

ALUMINIUM.

Aluminium is at the present time the cheapest metal in the market, with the exception of iron, zinc and lead. The metal is now extensively used in place of copper, brass, tin and in some cases even iron, especially when the reduction of dead weight is a question of great importance. Aluminium is also beginning to be used very largely for electrical conductors, as it gives nearly the same conductance as copper, weighs only half as much and costs less.

The progress made in the use of aluminium in the past few years justifies the most sanguine expectations. Twenty years ago the total output in the world did not exceed four or five tons and its price was $30,000 per ton; ten years ago its price was reduced to about $10,000 per ton and the output increased to about 30 tons per annum. Now the price is $650 to $700 per ton, and the output during the last 12 months is reckoned at 5,000 tons.—Electricity.

Ways of Russian Officers.

One of the hardships of a New York correspondent who tried to accompany the Russians during the recent military activities in China had to do with the convivial capacities of the czar's officers, whose guest he was. Vodka and sakuska were their favorite tipplers. These, as everybody knows, are not "soft," and to drink a Russian toast means the rapid consumption of a full glass of strong alcoholic liquid. Then the glasses are turned upward and they must leave no moist spot upon the tablecloth. One toast is to be responded to with another, when the same formality must be again celebrated, and so on. "When that great war between Russia and some eastern power really comes," the man declares, "ability to speak Russian will not be the qualification looked for by editors when searching for correspondents."

Tongue Tied Consuls.

In view of reports that a certain consul had been talking indiscreetly, a Washington newspaper correspondent visited Acting Secretary of State Adee and asked him what were the rules that applied to the case of overtalkative consuls.

"I can't give the consular rules offhand," replied Mr. Adee. "Can't you give the gist of them so far as they draw the line between what sort of talk is permissible and what is not?"

"Oh, yes, I can do that," replied Mr. Adee. "The rules governing consuls in their relations to the people of the nations to whom they are accredited may be summarized as follows:

"If wisdom's ways you'd surely seek, Five things observe with care—Of whom you speak, to whom you speak, And how, and when, and where."—New York Times.

Carr and His Fence.

One of the sights of Modoc county, Cal., is the stone wall four feet high which nearly surrounds Jesse D. Carr's estate of 25,000 acres. In order to protect his stock Mr. Carr built the fence at a cost of something like $60,000.

"Do you know what the United States marshal said about it when he was sent out here to investigate at the time they were trying to force me to pull it down during Cleveland's administration?" he asked a friend recently. "Well, he looked it over carefully, and he said to me, 'Carr, I don't know which is the bigger fool—the government, for wanting to pull down that fence, or you, for putting it up.' That," added Mr. Carr, "was the most sensible thing I ever heard about that fence—even if I did put it up."

An Ancient Arena.

The Paris Messenger says that an attempt to resuscitate the old Roman amphitheater near the Jardin des Plantes, Paris, is about to be made. This ancient arena, which is now used partly as a playground for poor children and partly for omnibus stables, has a remarkable history. It is one of the largest known Roman arenas and dates back to the first century. There is evidence that the Emperor Julian held sports there.

Polaris as a Triple Star.

A recent bulletin of the Lick observatory confirms an earlier announcement that Polaris is a triple star. The bright star—the north star—moves about the center of mass of itself and a dark companion star in 3 days 23 hours 14 minutes. These two stars also move slowly around a third dark star in a long period.

A Monster Tusk.

The largest ivory tusk ever known is now in the British museum. It measures 10 feet 2 1/2 inches on the outside curve, has a circumference at the solid end of 24 1/4 inches and weighs 226 1/3 pounds. The museum bought it for $1,750.

Stewed Potatoes.

Cut six or seven medium sized potatoes into half inch squares, put them in a saucepan with enough boiling water to cover, heat thoroughly and then pour off the water. Put half a pint of white sauce into a stewpan with salt, pepper and nutmeg and simmer very slowly for about eight minutes. Melt two spoonfuls of chopped shallot and fry for a few minutes, but do not brown.

BEST AMBULANCE SERVICE.

In its ambulance system of giving first aid to the wounded New York is far in advance of any other place in the world, and there is no city outside of the United States where the ambulance service has passed much beyond its elementary stages, writes Francis H. Nichols. The New York system has been studied by physicians and hospital authorities all over the world, and such as exist elsewhere are very largely copies of it.

In America the ambulance is now in vogue in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and New Orleans. In Europe the nearest approach to it is found in Vienna, where 20 ambulances and physicians are constantly at the service of the Volunteer Humane society, a voluntary organization established after the catastrophe of the Ring theater in 1881. Vienna ambulances are not attached to hospitals, as in New York, but are maintained in buildings especially erected for them on the same plan as the American fire houses.—Junior Munssey.

Small Onions Mistaken For Eyes.

"While I was in Mongolia," writes Mr. D. G. O'Connell, an American railway supply contractor, "the Boxers captured some railway stores used by the workmen while building the road. They burned everything. Among the lot were several barrels marked 'salt,' in which cartridges had been stored to get them past the Chinese customs officers. The fire of course exploded these and several Chinese were killed, but a particularly daring Boxer jumped on top of the heap of material and, picking out a glass bottle, held it up where all could see. The bottle contained little white onions, pickled."

"Look!" he cried to the rest of the mob. "See what the foreign devils have done. They have torn out the eyes of our children and pickled them to eat." The crazy mob attacked the railroad quarters after this harangue, but was easily routed.—Washington Post.

Senator Daniel's Life Work.

Senator Daniel of Virginia lives in very modest style in Washington. He cannot afford to spend much money, because everything he gets goes toward the payment of his father's debts. Daniel has spent 30 years paying off these debts, and it will probably be a life work. His father was Judge William Daniel of Lynchburg. He was considered wealthy to do, but when he died it was found that his fortune had been swept away in the panic of 1873, and that his liabilities were more than $100,000 in excess of his assets. Although Senator Daniel could have repudiated these debts, he chose to assume them. That was nearly 30 years ago, and all that time Senator Daniel has been paying off the debts, with interest.—New York Times.

Women Hermits in Russia.

Among the villagers on the Volga in the province of Samara a curious sect of women has made its appearance. It was originated by an elderly peasant woman in Soznova, called the "Blessed Mother." These women have fled from the villages around into a remote district, where they live singly in holes dug out of the face of the hill. They lead a life of fasting and prayer, and believe themselves called from the world, which they think is shortly about to perish in a general conflagration. The "Blessed Mother" has "ten wise virgins" as a sort of bodyguard, and the sect believes that these 11 women are possessed of miraculous powers.—London Globe.

Coronation Kisses.

"The sound of a kiss is not so loud as that of a cannon," remarked the professor at the breakfast table, "but its echo lasts a deal longer." Latterly it seems to last before it begins.

Nearly a year before his coronation King Edward announced that the ceremony of kissing by the peers would be omitted. "Imagine me compelling Devonshire to kiss me!" he is said to have exclaimed. "He would never survive the ordeal."

William IV, who objected to this part of the ceremony, submitted to it, but declared he would renounce the kingship rather than repeat the experience.

The New Buffalo Bill.

The United States is now issuing some $10 silver certificates which, when they come to hand, will be worth keeping a day or two to show to the children. The newest in the series is known as the "Buffalo bill," because it bears the figure of a mammoth buffalo. In this series only American subjects are used. An eagle adorns the $1 bill, George Washington's picture the $2 bill, the head of an Indian chief the $5 bill, and now the buffalo makes his appearance on the $10 note.

"With us," explained the Scot, "wasn't would!" I did not fail to observe that here was the opportunity to animadvert keenly, not to say wittily, upon the great and growing power of wealth in my own country. "With us," I rejoined, therefore, "wasn't might!" We parted at this, but I set detectives to shadow him, and they reported to me that three and a half hours later he smiled faintly.—Detroit Journal.

The "North Coast Limited."

Train of the Northern Pacific which created such a furor during its first season, in 1900, is again shooting back and forth across the continent in all the glory of its former days. This Crack Train of the Northwest, almost entirely new for 1901, is the epitome of modern passenger train construction. The Dining car with its a la carte breakfast and lunch, and table d'hôte dinner for $1.00; the unequalled Tourist Sleeping car of 16 sections, roomy lavatories and electric lights, the first class Drawing Room Pullman with two electric lights in each section, and the palatial Observation car with two smoking rooms, buffet, barber shop, bath, library of 140 volumes, current magazines, ladies' parlor, and observation platform, all together form a train of unusual comfort, excellence, and even luxuriousness even in this day of luxuries.

Of course, broad vestibules, steam heat and steel platforms are there, and there are nearly 300 electric lights on the train, the baggage car and day coaches being thus lighted also.

The train runs from St. Paul to Portland, Oregon, passing through Minneapolis, Fargo, Bozeman, Butte, Missoula, Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma.

Connections from Duluth and Superior and for Helena are made en route. Send to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, six cents for Wonderland 1901, a royal book having a chapter on this royal train.

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Balm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75cts. Sold by drug gists and mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

Josh Weethafer, of Loogootee, Ind., is a poor man, but he says he would not be without Chamberlain's Pain Balm if it cost five dollars a bottle, for it saved him from being a cripple. No external application is equal to this liniment for stiff and swollen joints, contracted muscles, stiff neck, sprains and rheumatic and muscular pains. It has also cured numerous cases of partial paralysis. It is for sale by J. W. Hees.

A Slip of Paper.

S. D. Henderson, of Mead Centre, Kan. says: "I can not say too much in praise of your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup and the peculiar way I came to try this medicine. I once found a slip of paper lying along the road, on which was printed these words, 'Use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for Asthma,' and my wife being troubled with Asthma for several years and having tried a great many different medicines, I thought I would just spend 50c more and try yours and I must say it is the best she has ever used, and think it will cure her sound and well." Sold by C. Reynolds.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says E. L. Taylor, of New Albany, Bradford County, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when editor Ward, of the Lacynville Messenger, suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by J. W. Hees.

Cheas Home Visitors' Excursions, Wednesday, September 25th, 1901

On the above date the Lake Erie & Western Railroad Company will run its annual Home Visitors' excursion to Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Sandusky Springfield, Ohio and Louisville, Ky., and other points in Indiana and Ohio.
